Dear Ms Scobie,

Recently the Council had purchased a birdXpeller Pro to help rid the tipsite and the Council operated pool area of nuisance seagulls.

With the pending avian flu virus and the climate in which we live, Council initiated a positive step to help rid the area of such nuisance birds.

We all have a right to live and culling the birds is not the only option and Council took the initiative to ensure that the best possible result is achieved.

In achieving the above, Environmental factors along with the use of the bird Xpeller units at these locations has assisted in achieving a win/win situation and I believe it has to be seen to be believed. The units have worked as described by Ms Scobie and also to show part of the success - I have forwarded a video clip on CD-R for which you may use and show other persons.

Having first heard about the units from the Sandown Racing area and other operators within Tasmania and spoken to these people I was impressed by the results they achieved.

It is important to keep monitoring the situations as they come to hand and not just set and forget it.

Options available on the bird x-peller units allow for the random modes which we at Council have found to be a very useful tool and these units are also used within an area close to residential housing which does not create a noise nuisance to the neighbours -- unlike other alternatives.

For the all above reasons, I do not and would not hesitate in receiving calls from any interested parties to discuss our situations and how we remedied the situation.

I would further like to state that Ms Scobie at the Bird Xpeller company in Tasmania has been very helpful with the setups to ensure the greatest possible results and is a credit to the company Ms Scobie operates.
